

Disclaimer

The information displayed on this website was provided by RAKE assessment development.

RAKE assessment development strives to ensure that the content of this website is kept as up-to-date, accurate and complete as possible. However, RAKE assessment development can not be held liable for any damage or loss as a result of any kind of usage of the information contained on the website of RAKE assessment development. In addition, no rights can be derived from the content of this website.

RAKE assessment development retains the intellectual property rights to the information contained on the website (text, logos, video's and images). None of the information contained on the RAKE assessment development website may be published, distributed and/or reproduced without prior written consent from RAKE assessment development. When quoting any of the content, the name of the source must always be mentioned. None of the content of this website may be reproduced and/or made public by print, photocopy, multimedia or any other means, without prior written consent from RAKE assessment development.

RAKE assessment development respects the privacy of every visitor to the website. RAKE assessment development does not collect any personal information unless it is voluntarily submitted. RAKE assessment development guarantees to all the visitors to its website that meticulous care will be taken to safely handle any personal information in accordance with applicable legislation, and that personal information will not be made available to third parties.